THE MARIA CURISTINA CIGAR FACTORY The Melbourne Ar jus, referring to the Tobacco exhibits in the Melbourne Exhibition thus describes the exhibit of the above factory: In the minor courts proper there is a stand Manila cigars, for which Mr. Matthew Mitchell of Gordon buildings. Flinders lave, is the Molbourne agent, being the Maria Christina Factory, established in Santa Cruz in 1883, and following also closely upon the Government relinquishing the monopoly in cigars. Of the 25 brands of cigars, ranging in value (wholesale, of course) from $50 to $7 per thousand, the company divide their cigars into two classes. the one of a dozen brands being enclosed in a spiral wrapper, while in the other thirteen the wrappor is laid on straight. The first let include all the more expensive eigers, seven of the dozen, which are all packed in boxes of 50 each, order como Primos de Estella, Brevas de Perez, Imperiales de Estrada, and Regalius de Jimeno The Primos de Estella are the heaviest cigar made by the company, a thousand of them turning the scale at 22th. Spanish weight. The ordinary trade cigars are very attractively displayed in this case, and, as far as appearances indicate merit, there would seem to be little room for choice, as much the same trouble has been taken with them as with the more expensive brands. The variety of the patterns in the case is not less noticeable than the sameness in colour and shape of cigars from the same box and bundle, showing that the labour is expert and the sorting cleverly done. In the 13 brands, varying in price from 9 to 16 dollars per thou. sand, there is wide room for choice without any material alteration in prices. In buying whole sale, however, the cost varies very materially in proportion as the number of cigars in each box is increased. Cigars which in the price-list of the company cost $14 per thousand in boxes of 100 each are reduced to $10 per thousand when the number in each box is increased to 500. The whole of the cigars in the case are made entirely from the Manila leaf grown by the company. Two of the brands, Leoneses and Moriones de Oroquieta, each quoted at $20 per thousand, are said to correspond very closely with the quality of good Havannaha. Messrs BRANDAO & Co., of this Colony are the local Agents for this factory, and have samples of all the different brands.

On the 2nd instant a political meeting was held at Shintomi Theatre. When a lecturer in the course of his remarks stated that the Constitution was thoroughly complete handreds of the persons who were present cried out "No! No!!" The Choya sensibly points out that if these cries were only the result of momentary excitement they constituted nothing which should attract special attention, but if otherwise they merited thoughtful consideration. -Japan Gazette.

THE NORTH BORNEO WAR.

THE JUSTICE OF IT DEFENDED BY A WELL-

"J.J.F.," who will be readily recognised in this colony by his initials, writes as follows to the

Straits Times :-I have recently returned from British North Borneo, and during my stay there I had unusually good opportunities of becoming acquainted with the circumstances out of which the late war there arose, and with the events that led to and accompanied the armistice and treaty now appily concluded. The accounts you have received from your Sarawak correspondent seem hardly to do justice to the North Bornen Company, and your short orticle of Saturday on the subject must leave on the minds of your readers an impression anything but favourable to the Company and its proceedings. Will you kindly permit me to state the case, as the officials of the North Borneo Company would, I think, themselves state it if they were at liberty to address you on the subject. In this way your readers will have both sides of the question before them. The Pangeran Shabander is or was an independent chieftain, owning and ruling, under grants from the Sultan of Brunei, a small tract of territory known as Padas Damit. The Padas Damit is a river running into the sea nearly opposite Labuan, and draining the delta like country lying between two much larger rivers. the Padas Besar to the south, and the Padas Kliss to the north. This little independent State is surrounded on all sides by the territories of the North Borneo Company, and the first and primary dispute between the Company and the Pangeran was as to boundaries. He chimed that his rights extended from the banks of the Padas Besar on the south to the banks of the Padas Kliss on the north. The British North Borneo Company, fortified by a formal declaration under the signatures and seals of the Sultan of Brunei and his ministers, denied this, and asserted that the Pangeran's territory was limited to the area drained by the Padas Damit, and that his boundary line to the south was the water divide between the Padas Damit and Padas Besar, and on the north the divide between the watersheds of the Padas Damit and Padas Klias respectively. This disputed question of boundaries is, of course, at the bottom of the whole trouble. It has been going on for some years, and the Sultan of Brunei has been too feeble to enforce respect for his decision. which was against the Paugeran. Out of this state of affairs arose, of course, constant difficulties, the Company, under the authority of Brunei, suforcing their rights in the disputed territory, and the Pangeran resisting; men were killpute, but it is undoubtedly in territory the le to which was in question, the Company oing in actual possession, but the Pangeran disputing their rights. The Government of North Borneo might have fairly and properly demanded the surrender of the murderer that he might be tried in their Courts for a crime committed within their defacto jurisdiction, but they confined themselves, as the title was in dispute and the jurisdiction questioned, to demanding, not that he should be surrendered, but that he should be arrested and tried either by the Pangeran or at Brunei by the Sultan. The murdered man being a subject of B. N. Borneo, and in its actual employ, the Government could not do less. All redress was refused by the Paugeran, and this, coming on top of many other causes of complaint, was the immediate cause of the war; and it certainly seems to me that it was justifiable, especially when it is added that not merely had the of the Company as a tax collector, and there is a strong evidence to prove that he was murdered because of his adherence to the Company. The

With the history of the war I have nothing to do. The Galelah fort was taken, and preparalions were in progress for an attack on smother of the forts, when the Pangeran invoked the assistance of the Rajah of Sarawak and the intervention of the Consul-General at Labuan. An his followers, and the murderer Si Patek, went with Mr. Hamilton to Branei, and there was a sort of trial there, without notice to the North Borneo Company or time given to get witnesses. The fact of the murder was admitted, the place f the murder was alleged to be in the Pangeran's dominions, the formal declaration of the Sultan and his ministers defining the Pangeran's territories being ignored, and the status and position of the murdered man as a subject and official of the Company was disregarded in toto. The accused was released—although why the Governor Creagh arrived a day or two afterwards, and the Treaty was made, by the Company for an annuity of $2,130 a year. this sum including a sum of $330 he had been in receipt of from the Company before. He agreed to remove with his family and followers from the territory, and not to return without special permission.

In my humble opinion, the war, under the

the question, could be justified. I don't know-and the Pangerau went over to Labuan with authority to whom they could appeal to settle their differences. This state of tacit hostility led most prudent and the most peaceably disposed could not avoid it under the circumstances. You say, rightly enough, that the terms granted the Pangeran Shabander were for more favourable than he had any right to expect, when the results of the operations against him are considered, but what else could be done? He had presented himself at Brunei. he had produced Si Patek for trial, though the trial itself was a farce. He had admitted himself besten. Governor Creagh made a golden bridge for a flying enemy; wisely, I think, and most erred, he has erred on the right side, and been merciful rather than just. The Pangeran Sha-

THE CHINESE IN AMERICA.

During the past decade the well-known Chi-Bese quarter or " ('hipstown " of You Franciso has changed considerably for the better. It is the fashion to describe it as a loathsome region, a hot-bed of vice, and so on. No doubt this part of the city, which occupies an elevated to gion be tween Dupont, California, and Kearny Street: is very much inferior to the more fashionable shopping promenades fraquented by the whites. but it is certainly quite as respectable and well kept as any of the great Chinese thoroughfares of Hongkong; and as for the vice, which of course must be present in a population largely consisting of mal s, many of whom smoke opium, it is not by any means so glaring as that which obtrades itself upon any one who takes a leisurely walk along Dupont Street, and studies the names of the house occupants by the light of their flaring windows. The Chinese Consulate General is a fine and dignified red brick building just on the skirts of Chinatown, bearing the superscription Tai Tsing Kwoll Tsung-li-shi Kwan Shu or "Consulate-General of the Great Pure Empire," and "Consul Bee seems quite an institution in San Francisco, where his face must be familiar to all the inquisitive reporters. The various proolemations and notices posted up in the streets belie all suspicion of political intrigue on the part of the Chinese officials or headmen. They exhort the traders to observe moderation and justice in their relations with the unfriendly barbarians: warn bad characters that they will forfeit all sympathy if they indulge in lawless behaviour; offer facilitate la pusinges homewards to those in distress or difficulty and, generally, point to a desire on the part of all the better disposed Chinese to live peaceably and industriously according to the laws of the land they are in. Within recent yerrs large numbers of Californian Chineso havo. gort of mixed dress, better suited to assate climate, and contrasting less

The favourite costume seems to be a short cost or ma-kwa somewhat longer than tile coolie jackot of China, but not so long as the gentleman's robe, and made out of blue Itussian cloth orbroadeloth. Underneath this is a mass of ordinary Chinese clothing in layers suitable to the perpetually varying temperature. The tronsers are of the same material, but loose at the ankle and differing little from the European cut. The "pigtoit" is usually worn hanging, and the head dress is generally a Chinese pork-pie felt hat or an American soft "billy-cook." Native Chinese shoes are worn. Complete European attire is rarely seen, and the majority. of the working men dress as in thina. A few "swells" may be seen strutting about in fashionable Chinese costame, but out of doors the well-to-do seem to find the mixed dress most convenient. Few if any drinking saloons are to be seen in the Chinese quarter, at least for themselves; those that exist are for the lower class whites, who seem to find convenial company in this region, which is fringed by a doubtful colony of Italians and other nationalities of non-Angle-Saxon type. There is very little rowdiness, much less squabbling than in China. no public exhibition of vice, and very tolerable cleanliness. As in China, and in fact wherever-Chinese are to be found, industry is every where apparent; and, whilst the white population is taking its pleasure after the business of the North China Insurance-Tls. 297; per share. day, the laborious Chinaman is still ironing Yangteze Insurance Association-Tls. 974 per cuffs and collars, making up his books, and working steadily almost into the small hours of Chinese Insurance Company, Limited-$165 per the morning. ENNGLISH AND CHINESE WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

For comprehensiveness and practical service his Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to soin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relationshas imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Thinese and English type correspond in the size at TER AM. of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work the FIHE Steamship collowing facts are submitted for consideration :halmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English Corkindale, Commander, will be despatched for and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst the above Port about the 26th instant. this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characers. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary, works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various appli-cations and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples his work contains more than five times as

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. lo parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasion.

It comprises upwards of two thousand large guarto Dares. 4 Vols. IMPERIAL QUARTO, Price, $20. A Large REDUCTION in PRICE is made
